

Tresco & Bryher, Isles of Scilly

“Autumn Migration”

New Inn, Tresco

Hell Bay, Bryher

Sept. 25-30

Sept. 30-Oct. 5

The Ambience? Tresco - An idyllic paradise island some 30 miles west of Land's End with spectacular white sandy beaches surrounded by turquoise-blue waters, rugged moorland, ancient woodland & sheltered bulb fields, the “jewel” in the Islands' crown. Easily accessible, Tresco is invitingly beautiful, a kaleidoscope of colour, refreshing! Adjacent to Tresco lies Bryher – wild & untamed, overlooking the Norrard Rocks and facing the roaring, blue Atlantic Ocean.

The Migrant Birds? Internationally famous for migrants - raptors, waders, warblers, pipits & wagtails, chats & flycatchers to name just a few! Arriving from Scandinavia, Russia, Southern Europe & North America, regular scarce visitors include Great Northern Diver, Spotted Crake, Pectoral Sandpiper, Dotterel, Wryneck, Tawny Pipit, Ortolan, Lapland Bunting, Barred Warbler, Yellow-browed Warbler, Red-backed Shrike, Red-breasted Flycatcher & Firecrest. Plus resident Shag, Peregrine, Raven, Ringed Plover, Golden Pheasant, Stonechat & Linnet.

The itinerary? Migrant birds arrive on all the islands, so apart from the Tresco Great Pool & famous Abbey Garden come & visit St Martins, Bryher & St Agnes to search out newly arrived birds. Something special is always found! In windy weather Kittiwakes, Fulmars & Gannets along with Skuas & Shearwaters pass by the northern headlands. Very much for the discerning naturalist!

The Accommodation? At the New Inn, Tresco - intimate, cosy, fully en-suite, excellent value and only 400 yards from the Quayside & Great Pool. Alternatively try the contemporary Hell Bay, Bryher – stylish, offering excellent local cuisine and refreshingly un-stuffy luxury on the edge of England.
